SEASIDE VILLA experience

This is how the story goes : the Côte de Nacre seaside villas appeared in the 19th century, a time when society was changing and architecture, urban planning and artworks captured the coast. Away from the polluted cities, sea resorts were a source of inspiration for wealthy families and architects. The spectacular scenery by the beach is a feast for the eyes: early morning on the embankment, sunlight awakens elegant silhouettes that illuminate the landscape. Let us introduce you to the villas in all shapes and sizes (everything from Neo-Normand to Neo-Gothic) that draw us to them to drink in all their architectural glory. Our heart beats faster at the sight of La Blquette, its soft and smooth curves bringing to mind the wind blowing on the dunes. It looks sweet and wise from a distance. When you get up close, there's always some new detail to spot on the exterior...

Want to know what happens next ? Come and visit the colourful villas and uncover their secrets. Historical landmark, bolthole for writers, foster home for the Emperor's nephew : the villas from Lion-sur-mer to Ouistreham have many a tale to tell.

STORYTIME

The day I became William the Conqueror.

« When I was born, I wasn't "legitimate" which earned me a nasty nickname... I still became the Duke of Normandy when I was 8 but again, it wasn't plain sailing. I'll spare you the details and cut to the chase.

First of all, I was the first to spot Caen's potential and I'm pretty pleased with myself about that : I moved here. What more do you want ? I may have demonstrated my power but some of my decisions got me a lot of haters. The first was when I married Matilda of Flanders in 1050... The Pope wasn't too happy. But we sorted it out and built Abbaye aux Hommes and Abbaye aux Dames. I actually built Caen Castle too and that was a knockout !

You know, I know potential when I see it. And one day I saw myself and was crowned the King of England in 1066. It wasn't easy but you can never give up. I beat Harold fair and square with my team, on his home turf too. Then pow ! I became the myth, the legend: William the Conqueror !

That's all from me. I hope you enjoyed that. If you have, feel free to visit Caen Castle and the town's abbeys...Always a pleasure to welcome you ! »

Where the heart beats faster

1 team, 5 favourites !

Culture, adventure or nature, there's something for everyone here. And even more at the Tourist Office of Caen la mer. Everyone in our team has their own ideas about the best things to do in Normandy. Here are our 5 favourites !

One thing's for sure : there's a Caen for everyone...

EMMANUELLE LA PRAIRIE

Go green

Central Park ? Old hat ! Stay in France and get your dose of nature all year round in Caen at La Prairie. There's no red carpet here but we roll out 90 hectares of greenery outside the town centre. It's a breath of fresh air for nature lovers and keen walkers. And let's not forget the park's stars! They include 180 species of bird, the powerful horses at the nearby race track and our four-legged friends who call this place home.

JEAN ARDENNE ABBEY

History comes to life

This is the story of a 12th century abbey with its head in the clouds and its feet in the field. It set the scene for tragedy when France was liberated in 1944 and its Canadian garden will forever bear its mark. This is more than a memorial site; it's also a research and knowledge centre as the abbey now houses the Institute for Contemporary Publishing Archives and its collections.

GAËLLE CAP CANAL MER

Soul of a skipper

Women take the helm ! Just look at Odile, a local skipper whose experience matches her passion. An inspiring encounter with two activities: set sail on Caen la mer canal from the famous Pegasus Bridge or head out to sea from Ouistreham Lighthouse. Settle in, get your bearings and listen closely as Odile shares her background and sailing expertise. Happy sailing !

FLORENCE LA DÉLICATE IN OUISTREHAM

Don't miss this ride back in time

Strange visitors have been spotted on the streets of Ouistreham Riva-Bella for some time now. With a headset clamped over their ears and a GPS parasol in their hand, they seem absorbed by an odd tale... Back to the future ? Better ! A trip back in time on the La Délicate audio tour of Ouistreham. It's a break outside of time that will allow you to better understand Ouistreham, not only its history, its past, but also its present. You'll laugh, you'll cry, it's a real time to remember.

Exclusive to Caen la mer !

NELLY LA FERME SAINT-VAAST

Ain't that linen !

Did you know? Normandy is the biggest producer of linen fibre in the world. Another good reason to join Mathilde and Benoît on the farm and uncover the blue flower's biggest secrets. Children and adults are soon caught up in the magic of linen on a family-friendly tour exploring how it's grown, processed and used. Quality time in the countryside on a 100% made in France experience.

Top of the spots

Top Instagrammable spots !

Caen Castle

2 ACHINGLY COOL

Perched 7m above the Orne Estuary, the Pointe du Siège Observatory Tower is the best for green backdrops ! A landscape between the sea and coast with at least 271 species of plant and wildlife... That means a #100%Nature shot.

Pointe du Siège

1 CONQUER THE NET...

Caen Castle enclosure is a high-ranking setting (at least as high-ranking as a duke) : drink in views of the town from the belvedere. The ramparts slowly light up as night falls.

Ouistreham Lighthouse

4 IN THE OUISTREHAM RIVA-BELLA SUNSHINE

Ouistreham's seaside is better than Miami Beach when it comes to souvenirs: what with the beach and its huts, the big wheel, Promenade de la Paix and so much more, there are more photo opportunities than there are shells !

Ouistreham Riva-Bella

5 WITH A VIP GUEST...

Have you met Caen-Normandy's totem ? You don't have to complete a challenge to get here, just head for Abbaye aux Hommes esplanade. The sculpture takes pride of place and captures Caen's bond with Normandy opposite the Town Hall near the French gardens.

Abbaye aux Hommes

ALL TOGETHER NOW ?

Cheeeese !

3 LIGHT IT UP !

Venture up 171 steps and drink in 360° views of the town and English Channel from the top of the Ouistreham Lighthouse ! The sky's the limit... even when it comes to new followers !
